SAID TO BE AT HEAD OF LARGE BANDIT FORCE

Rumor States That Villa at Head of Large Force Is in Hiding in the Mountains Not Far From the American Border Line. U. S. Troops Are Investigating the Report. Major Langhorne and His Men Are Still After the Big Bend Bandits. The Movement of Carranza Troops Is Regarded as Friendly. New Mexico Militia Mobilization Completed.

[By Associated Press.]
Field Headquarters, by wireless to Columbus, N. M., May 13.—Detachments of American troops are investigating rumors that Villa, at the head of eleven hundred men, is hiding in the mountains between Ascension, Chihuahua and Culberson's Ranch, about sixty-five miles west of Columbus on the American side of the frontier.

More Mobilization.

Columbus, N. M., May 13.—Mobilization of the New Mexico militia, more than a thousand men, was completed here today.

To Surprise Bandits.

[By Associated Press.]
Marathon, Texas, May 13.—(Bulletin.)—Major Langhorne and a flying squadron of the Eighth Cavalry, is flying over the white sands in Mexico today in a supreme effort to surprise the Mexican raiders of Glenn Springs and Dougillas.

Think Intentions Friendly.

[By Associated Press.]

El Paso, Texas, May 13.—The movements of Carranza troops toward the Big Bend region were assumed here to be directed toward an effort to round up the Glenn Springs raiders from the south while American forces are pressing them from the north. The war department has no confirmation that Major Langhorne and his four troops of cavalry had crossed the border but assumed that he had done so if there was a hot trail to follow.

It is toward Boquillas that the Carranza forces from Piedras Negras, numbering about 1500 men, are understood to be heading. Officials saw no reason to suspect any but friendly intentions behind the movement.

In commemoration of Mother, let all wear some kind of a white flower. Let every person in Bryan who would like to pay tribute to mother, whether you have been attending Sunday School or not, come to the First Baptist Sunday School in the morning. Come as a token of the love that you still hold for her. She may be dead, that makes no difference, her memory is still precious to you. Possibly it may have been many years since you were last at Sunday School and your own head may have become white with the passing of time, but Mother's name will be the last to fade away, so we earnestly ask that you show your lingering love for her by coming once more and sitting with us in the Sunday School. It will do you good and it will help us.

We will be much disappointed if we have fewer than 400 in attendance.
JNO. A. MOORE, JR.,
Sunday School Superintendent.
